RECOGNIZING THE REPUBLIC OF TURKEY COMMEMORATING MAY 19 AS ATATURK YOUTH AND SPORTS DAY

HON. STEVE COHEN

OF TENNESSEE

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 17, 2012

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to commemorate May 19 as a significant day in the history of our friend and ally the Republic of Turkey.

In Turkey, May 19 is celebrated as the commemoration of Mustafa Kemal Ataturk, the Founder of the Republic of Turkey. It was on that day in 1919 when Ataturk landed in the Black Sea port of Samsun and the war of independence began. After the war, he dedicated May 19 to Turkey's youth as a reminder that their "first duty is to preserve and defend forever Turkish independence and the Turkish Republic."

He was an exceptional leader who understood that Islam and modernity are not inconsistent—an important factor to reinforce today with democratic leaders throughout the Muslim world.

Ataturk went on to build a republic based on universal values, secularism, equal rights and democracy under the rule of law—from a disintegrating Ottoman Empire. He understood that advances in women's rights, education, science and technology were crucial to his vision of creating a nation as proud members of the group of civilized nations.

His reforms inspired President John F. Kennedy who said, "The name Ataturk reminds mankind of the historical accomplishments of one of the greatest men of this century. His leadership gave inspiration to the Turkish nation, farsightedness in the understanding of the modern world, and courage and power as a military leader."

Recognizing the importance physical activity has in the health of our nations, the United States and Turkey have a shared vision of promoting the well-being of their nation's youths. Coinciding with Ataturk Youth and Sports Day, President Barack Obama has designated the month of May 2012 as National Physical Fitness and Sports Month. These celebrations promote the value of physical activity in the pursuit of a happier, healthier and more productive nation.

May is a very important month for the United States and Turkey—it's a month where we both honor the importance and health of our youth. What started on May 19, 1919 as a great leader beginning his inspirational journey to transform his people, has culminated in a yearly celebration of his vision becoming a reality. We should all learn a lesson from this man's life. A leader with motivation and determination can lay the roots for a great future.

HON. JEFF MILLER

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 17, 2012

Mr. MILLER of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize and congratulate Mr. Steven Moczary, the 2012 Eglin Air Force Association Teacher of the Year. Despite being new to the field of teaching, Mr. Moczary has had a substantial impact on the lives of his students. To be chosen as Teacher of the Year after only one year in the profession is evidence of Mr. Moczary's talent and work ethic. Mr. Moczary's strong background in science, engineering and aviation, as displayed by his Masters Degree in Aeronautical Science from Embry Riddle Aeronautical University and his Bachelors Degree of Science in Engineering from Texas Tech University, has helped him achieve laudable success in such a short period of time.

Before beginning his career in education, Mr. Moczary served in the United States Air Force as a B-52 Electronic Warfare Officer and Flight Safety professional. As a teacher, he has continued his dedication to aeronautical safety as the Assistant Director of Academic Support for the CHOICE Aviation Institute. In this role, he works with his alma mater, Embry Riddle, to instill in his students a love for aviation, while imparting in them the importance of safety. His hope is to encourage more students to enter the aviation field.

Mr. Moczary's courses at the CHOICE Aviation Institute are among the most invigorating, innovative, and challenging in the entire school district. His knowledge of aeronautics is coupled with a unique ability to engage his students. Mr. Moczary is also able to call on his experience serving in the United States Air Force Safety Center and his vast knowledge of the safety systems and the human interface to communicate valuable information to students about the aviation profession and the science of flight.

Mr. Moczary is described as always having a "can do" spirit that he utilizes in his inspiring attitude to motivate his students. In his position as the Assistant Director of Academic Support, Mr. Moczary counsels and speaks to students about present and future enrollment in aviation programs, often providing them with career counseling. He also reintroduced the Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAVs) course to the CHOICE Aviation curriculum. This course teaches students about UAV technology, which can be particularly important to the Florida Panhandle after a hurricane or natural disaster to survey damage and search for missing persons. Mr. Moczary has given back to the community through a course teaching flying safety in high schools and middle schools across the Florida Panhandle.

Described as an invaluable asset to the CHOICE program, Okaloosa County schools, and Embry Riddle University, Mr. Moczary is committed to the success of each of his students. On behalf of the United States Congress, I am proud to recognize Mr. Steven Moczary for his achievement and commitment to aviation education in Northwest Florida.
